

youthtrain

on campuses all over the country on march 28th

This spring, young progressive leaders are coming together for a nation-wide training taking place at campuses and cities across the country.

YouthTrain is a two hour event that uses a combination of a training video, live webcast with national youth leaders, and small group role plays in each event. All the events will take place on the same evening...

From Berkeley to Boston, passionate leaders on campuses and in cities are going to spend an evening learning from each other, passing on their experiences to new leaders, and building momentum for activism this spring.

Scheduled for Wednesday, March 28th, YouthTrain will focus on how to recruit volunteers and how to keep other youth involved and excited about a campaign.

Host a YouthTrain

We're looking for progressive leaders to host a YouthTrain on their campus or in their city. In order to host a YouthTrain, you need to be able to do the following things:

- Find a space that will fit 10-25 people (depending on how many attend)
- It must have the ability to project a training video and webcast
- Have adequate sound so everyone can hear
- Have a broadband internet connection to watch the live webcast
- Be able to recruit people to join your YouthTrain

If you can do all that, then you can host your own YouthTrain and we can do the rest. If you agree to the above terms and have the ability to do then, then go to www.progressleaders.org/youth and we'll give you everything you need!
